SCR TTC Releases Management Training Course for Delivery

Los Angeles, CA – The Southern California Transit Training Consortium (SCR TTC) has released a new course for management training titled: "Leadership Transition to a Management Position". The inaugural delivery of this course will be at the Montebello Transit facility on September 17, 2008.

The development of this course is the result of a needs analysis and request by the transit members of the SCR TTC to provide needed training for individuals who are currently aspiring to management positions.

This course will provide participants with a practical framework for understanding the changing roles, responsibilities and expectations for a new managerial position. Course participants will learn the importance of maintaining a balance between achieving results and developing people. The course has been designed to enhance and build upon the participants current leadership abilities. In addition, participants will study the skills necessary to command respect, obtain commitment, and earn credibility with employees. Above all, participants will learn how to establish a leadership image that motivates and inspires a staff to achieve desired results.

The course was developed at the Workforce Learning Resource Center of El Camino College.

For more information about this course or any other courses offered by the SCR TTC, check the SCR TTC web site at www.scrttc.com, or contact Nina Babiarz at babiarz@scrttc.com or telephone 619-667-6636

The SCR TTC is a coalition of over 30 transit operators, community colleges and other educational institutions in Southern California, joined together to develop industry driven, competency based curriculum that meets present and future technological needs of public transit systems. The SCR TTC has been designated as a 501 (c)(3) organization, as well as a California Non-Profit Corporation.
